Glendale Police Department 2017 Community Academy Application

Over the next 10 weeks we will give you an inside view into the Glendale Police Department and how it functions – how the police responded to crimes, how they are investigated, and the efforts involved in solving them. To enlighten you on how personnel are trained, and how they actually perform on the job. Law enforcement and the means and methods in which we do the job can be intriguing to some, so we want to show you “What we do and why we do it”.

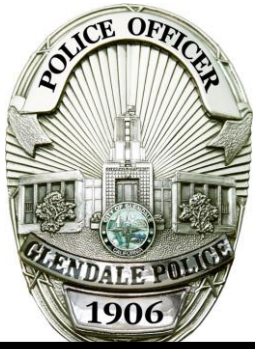

Our objective isn't to make you each a police officer. It is meant to give you an understanding of law enforcement in general and our department in particular and perhaps just as importantly, to show how you play a role in our efforts. The community has a profound impact on our success. One of the Academy's goals is to enhance communication between the citizen and police to create partnerships.

The course is set up in modules, so new and varied information is shared each week. That is why it is crucial for you to attend all the sessions. While an occasional absence is understandable, if you do not have the time to commit to the 10 weeks of learning, let us know and we will try to accommodate you in a future class.

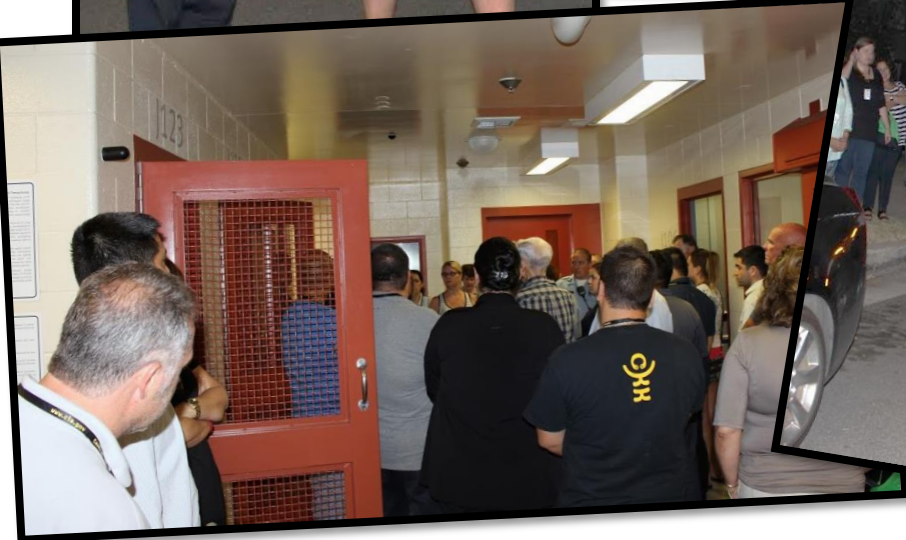

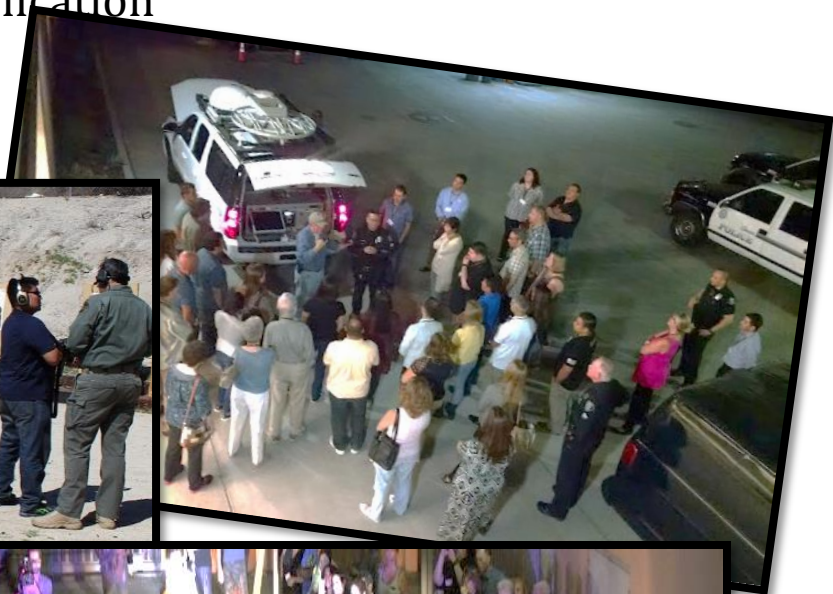

Community involvement is the most powerful force any law enforcement agency has in the fight against crime. An informed community understands the goal of the police who serve them. One of the benefits of attending the Community Academy is helping others understand the role of the police in our collective safety.

There can be misconceptions about law enforcement and its procedures. You will get a realistic picture of field work, investigations and expected conduct from the material you learn here. In addition, we hope you will develop positive relationships with the Glendale Police Department personnel involved in the academy. Your interest may spur you to volunteer at the Glendale Police Department. We have many interesting roles that volunteers play here from giving station tours to field assistance to working with different units in many capacities.
